

DEBORAH GOLETZ is a master tile maker and muralist. Her ceramic murals can be found in the NY Subway system and two NJ transit stations. She has taught tile workshops throughout New Jersey and is the author of Ceramic Art Tile (Schiffer Books). DeBorah currently teaches ceramics at Montclair State University, William Patterson University, Ramapo College and The Art School at Old Church. She studied ceramics in Japan at the International Workshop for Ceramic Art and earned an MFA from Parsons School of Design. She opened For Love of Mud Pottery in West Milford, NJ to teach classes and establish a wood kiln. She creates ceramic murals and launched a new business making Wedding Dress Teapots. Please visit her gallery pages for photos of this work and more.

Visit her website at www.forloveofmud.com